Subject: Updates to Fairfax Water Design Practice Manual

The Fairfax Water Design Practice Manual was updated with changes that became effective July 27, 2021. The document may be found on the Fairfax Water website at www.fairfaxwater.org.

The Design Practice Manual (DPM) provides design and technical requirements for the design and review of construction documents pertaining to Fairfax Water facilities. The DPM has been updated to remove policy items not related to design practices, along with minor editorial changes highlighted below:

- Updates to submission requirements to reflect current digital submission requirements and processes

Additional minor editorial changes and clarifications not highlighted above are also included in the recent update. As always, please refer to the Fairfax Water website for the effective version of these documents.
